The NeoCosmos way of thinking is born from logic, reason, and common sense, starting from what we can observe and reflect upon. Free from inherited ideologies and narratives, each book offers a direct and easy-to-read vision. It does not seek to convince, only to provide clarity so the reader can think for themselves.

THE TECHNOLOGICAL PRIMATE

We imagine that technological progress parallels human evolution.

Complex tools are mistaken for superior beings.

This book exposes the fatal error: while our external power grew exponentially, our psychology remains stuck in the Pleistocene.

Technology is not a civilizing agent but an amplifier of primitive instinct. The danger is not the machine—it is the primitive brain controlling it.

Sample – Chapter 1: THE HUMAN: WORSE THAN A MONKEY WITH A KNIFE

The history of the human species is not the history of its evolution, but of the accumulation of its tools. There is a fundamental separation between the development of the human being's internal capacity and the growth of their external power. While technology has advanced at an exponential speed, the maturity, wisdom, and capacity for self-regulation of the human who wields it have remained functionally stagnant. This imbalance is not a secondary detail; it is the central condition that defines the current state of our civilization and the greatest risk it faces.

From the moment one of our ancestors sharpened a stone to cut, our history was set. That act, seemingly simple, was the first in an unbroken chain of artificial extensions. Every new tool—from fire and the wheel to the printing press and the steam engine—did not represent a change in the nature of the being, but an amplification of its reach. The hand that once could only strike could now build or destroy from a distance. The mind that once could only remember could now record and replicate information on a large scale. Technology did not transform us; it gave us more power to keep being what we have always been.

INDEX OF CHAPTER (9)

THE HUMAN: WORSE THAN A MONKEY WITH A KNIFE

Technology without maturity leads to collapse.

TECHNOLOGY IS NEITHER GOOD NOR BAD: IT IS AN AMPLIFIER

Tools magnify instincts, not wisdom.

THE MYTH OF GOOD AND EVIL: THE JUSTIFICATION OF INSTINCT

Morality as a mask for primitive impulses.

CAPITALISM AS INSTINCT: THE SYSTEM WITHOUT BRAKES

Economic growth driven by survival logic.

HEALTH AS A BUSINESS: THE PROGRAMMED OBSOLESCENCE OF THE HUMAN BODY

Illness managed as endless profit model.

THE NEW RELIGION: HOW MEDICINE REPLACED GOD

Science and doctors as modern faith.

ARTIFICIAL DNA: THE TOOL TO ERASE THE SPECIES

Genetic engineering risks outweigh benefits.

THE BROKEN SPECIES: NEITHER ANIMALS NOR GODS

Humanity trapped in unresolved duality.

EXTINCTION AS THE ONLY LOGICAL WAY OUT

Why self-destruction is inevitable outcome.

FINAL REFLECTION
PROJECTION TO THE YEAR 2050

the 10 to 15 included in the complete book, offering additional perspectives to view the topics from other angles.

PATH TO EXTINCTION SYMBOLS

Symbol	Representation	System Link	Meaning
Domino Chain	Cascading failure	Interconnected crises	One trigger can collapse the whole system
Hourglass	Limited time resource	Ecological and systemic deadlines	Inevitability of outcome
Blindfold	Lack of foresight	Policy and leadership short-sightedness	Unseen dangers until too late
Cliff Edge	Irreversible tipping point	Planetary system thresholds	Point of no return

GENETIC ENGINEERING AS THE "NEW TOWER OF BABEL"

Element	Tower of Babel Narrative	Genetic Engineering Context	Shared Lesson
Tower Construction	Human ambition to reach divine level	Designing human biology	Attempt to transcend natural limits
Collapse of Tower	Divine punishment	Unforeseen biological catastrophe	Consequence of overreaching
Language Confusion	Inability to cooperate	Geopolitical competition	Fragmentation of unity
Legacy of Story	Warning against arrogance	Ethical caution in science	Humility before complexity
